EDITORIAL

Maybe The Time Is Right

What do Nat King Cole, Sonny & Cher, The Mandrell Sisters, Mac Davis, Glen Campbell, Perry Como, Andy Williams, The Smothers Brothers, Johnny Cash, Roger Miller, and Dolly Parton have in common?

Right - they all had network variety television shows, except for Dolly who has a network variety television show.

The exposure offered not only to the stars of these programs but the required musical guests (who else do they have to sing a duet with?) has always proven to be a substantial help in ringing up sales on current product and catalogs.

The initial reviews for the Dolly show have not been great, but reviews have never been the determining factor in the entertainment field. Shows that have been critically acclaimed have failed, and frequently the shows the critics hate the most have gone on to be long term smashes.

If this program can show substantial ratings, maybe only reasonable ratings, the copycat TV industry is sure to shop around for more music oriented variety show hosts and hostesses and that can only mean more consistent and wider exposure of the live appearances that have given way to the music video format. Live performances have always been a favorite of the viewing public.

We would like to take this opportunity to wish Dolly the best of luck and success on her new ABC variety program. We sincerely hope it's a huge smash and will generate new enthusiasm for additional prime time shows.

Joins Capitol Out Of Suit

Motown, Joe Isgro Settle Out Of Court

LOS ANGELES - Motown Records became the second label to settle out of court in the $25,000,000 antitrust lawsuit brought against the labels by independent promoter Joe Isgro. The amount of the settlement was unspecified. Capitol Records was the first label to negotiate a deal, settling for an undisclosed sum in May of this year.

Isgro's suit, filed in May of 1986, charges the labels and the R.I.A.A. with conspiring to terminate contracts with independent promoters because the costs had gotten out of hand. An NBC Nightly News report in early 1986 accused the independent promotion trade of ties with organized crime and accepting payola practises.

Defendants remaining involved in the case have asked U.S. District Court Judge Consuelo Marshall to extend the discovery phase of the case, originally scheduled to be completed in October of this year, until April of 1988. This would necessitate a delay in the trial, currently slated to begin in February.

C.E.M.A. DEAL – Capitol/EMI-Manhattan/Angel (C.E.M.A.) has entered into an agreement to distribute product for the independent label Allegiance Records. Pictured (l-r) Cliff Schultz, director, sales and marketing C.E.M.A.; Dennis White, C.E.M.A. president; Bill Valenziano; Joe Manfield, divisional vice president of sales, C.E.M.A.; Marty Goldrod, president of Allegiance Records; and Joe McFadden, manager, national marketing, C.E.M.A.

BMG/QMI Pact Worldwide Distribution Deal

NEW YORK – BMG Music International has been named the exclusive licensee for all QMI Music repertoire worldwide, excluding the U.S. and Canada. QMI Music is the recording arm of Quantam Media, Inc., started by Robert Pittman and MCA in January of 1987.

Said Pittman, QMI's ceo and president: "We're delighted with the association and excited about tapping the momentum of BMG Music International for the launch of QMI Music internationally."

Said Les Garland, president of QMI Music: "No one knows the international marketplace like BMG Music International. They have a proven track record for breaking acts and can give QMI Music's unique artists even greater exposure."

Said Rudi Gassner, president and ceo of BMI Music International: "We are very proud to be associated with QMI Music. Both Pittman and Garland have proven to be true innovators in the marketing and development of music within the industry and we look forward to a long and successful relationship."

QMI Music's first release will be by Jimmy Davis and Junction.

Boy George Cleared In Heroin Death Case

LOS ANGELES - Chief Federal District Judge Jack Weinstein announced September 30 that all charges against British pop singer George O'Dowd, known professionally as Boy George, have been dropped in the case regarding the death by overdose of Michael Rudetsky. The claim against the singer had started out at $44 million, then was reduced to $20 million before the dismissal. In his decision, Weinstein stated that the New York court system had no jurisdiction over Boy George, who lives in London.

The original complaint, brought by Rudetsky's parents, charged that Boy George had "actively participated in Rudetsky being injected with a lethal quantity of heroin." However, the investigating pathologists found no recent injection marks on Rudetsky's body, thereby causing those charges to by dropped. The remaining claim charged only negligence.

Boy George's English lawyer, Samuel Sylvester, stated his conviction that if the same claim were brought in England, a similar dismissal would result.

Four Stations Sign On To National "Wave" Format

LOS ANGELES - Satellite Music Network chairman John Tyler has announced the first four signings for the satellite-transmitted "Wave" radio format. The revolutionary format, debuted in Los Angeles on KTWV-FM, has proven successful in attracting the coveted 25-54 demographic audience.

SMN signed a producer/distributor agreement with KTWV-FM parent company Metropolitan Broadcasting on August 24 to take the format national via satellite. Metropolitan president Carl C. Brazell, Jr., said at the time "There has been a tremendous amount of interest from operators across the country since we began in February. We believe this association with Satellite to network the Wave will allow this national appetite to be satisfied very quickly."

Kansas City-based KCWV-FM, formerly KZZC-FM, signed on Thursday, September 17, with owners Wodlinger Broadcasting

OUT OF THE WOODS– The Call is a band that has been around for quite some time, improving and becoming more vital with each release. Vocalist/bassist/main songwriter Michael Been was holed up in the Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel recently before their gig at The Roxy on the 29th, and spoke with Points West about the band's latest Elektra LP, Into The Woods.

"I really like (the record), because we accomplished something that we set out to do, which was to open things up a little bit more instrumentally," he explained. "Plus it was more live than our other albums. We were on the road for eight months, then came right off and into the studio. We kept a lot of the dynamic and energy of live and the improvisation within the song structures."

Been believes that this record shows serious growth within the band, maturity that is evidenced by the amount of musical interpretation and initiative. Lyrically, Been's focus has changed over the years, from the quintessential angry young man to a thoughtful observer of social and political ills. He counts "I Don't Wanna," "In The River," and "Memory," (the band's first ballad) as among the best compositions he's had.

RIGHTEOUS – Michael Been (R) and The Call.

"The earlier albums were happening when Central America was just starting, the Middle East was becoming an everyday thing, terrorism, the new American military buildup, Afghanistan, Grenada, everything..." he mused. "Those albums kind of reflected those times. We were younger, there was more anger, more shattered idealism. There is still a lot of that anger there, but now it's more of an introspective thing; a psychological attempt to understand why human beings get into wars, and why we love them so much, that sort of thing."

Into The Woods has a slightly more commercial sound than its predecessors, but the band's unshakeable bottom-heavy groove is still intact. Could this album take them from alternative darlings to mainstream acceptance? "I don't know. That would be nice. But we don't see ourselves as necessarily that type of band. We try not to look at each album as a make it or break it album, but as a body of work - to look back on, and see progress. Hell, we might be the Grateful Dead of the 90's," said Been in his leisurely, Jack Nicholson drawl.

Spiritual is a word that has been overused in describing the Call's sound, but the depth of Been's convictions are evident in the lyrical imagery. He explains his feelings about religion as a deeply personal confrontation within each person, which the Call's music constantly addresses. "There's another entire side of life that somebody might not be paying any attention to. They might just be caught up in their car or their career or their home or their hairdo... there's a whole other side of life that's more exciting, more rewarding, and certainly happier."

STILL A TEENAGER – The great Dick Clark was recently feted by the Guiness folks for his Supreme Acheivement Award in conjunction with the longetivity of American Bandstand. Shown at the jam is Clark, Jody Watley, and Andre Cymone.

THE SAGA CONTINUES – Another band hot on the phone trails this week is Canadian rockers Saga, promo-ing for their first release for Atlantic called Wildest Dreams. Vocalist/keyboardist Michael Sadler bent Points West' ears for a few minutes this week too, and he explained that this new record is a vital return to basics, with the band cutting back to a three piece, composed of original members Sadler and brothers Ian and Jim Crichton. "It was a decision that almost made itself," Sadler remarked. "It was just time for a change. Things stopped feeling as fresh and inspiring as they used to. This was just the most logical thing to do, because this was the nucleus of the band ten years ago, and this is almost like starting over."

These guys are huge in Europe, with strings of gold records following them everywhere they go. But they can't seem to get arrested over here since their radio smash "On The Loose" from 1981. Initial radio response to the new album's first single "Only Time Will Tell" has been strong, and portends great things in the future. "I would like to think this album will reach a wider audience, especially here in America. I think that it will pick up a new audience without sacrificing the old audience. I don't think that we've made that much of a compromise."

LATE NEWS FLASH – Just off the presses, it appears that the Father of Rock and Roll, Chuck Berry, is going to get the 1,857th star on the Hollywood Walk o' Fame on Thursday, October 8. Well done... For more on Chuck, see the right hand side of page 11.

COVER STORY

Na-na-na-na Nationwide –With Loverboy

By Murdoch McBride

For those who don't know about Loverboy, a quick review of their discography might be in order – after all, this Canadian band has accomplished quite a lot since they formed in 1978.

Loverboy is no stranger to success. Their first four albums did extremely well, with Lovin' Every Minute Of It certifying platinum, and Loverboy and Keep It Up going double platinum, and Get Lucky coming in at an astonishing triple platinum. Their current LP, Wildside, is generating not only welcome MTV airplay and serious chart activity but also has the distinction of being recorded at Little Mountain Sound, the same Canadian studio where Whitesnake, Bon Jovi, Areosmith, and Bryan Adams did their current albums.

Naturally, the band has racked up an impressive list of hit singles along the way, including "Turn Me Loose," "The Kid Is Hot," "Lucky Ones," "Lovin' Every Minute Of It," "This Could Be The Night," and their current smash, "Notorious," which features a fresh approach to songwriting.

"I went out to Jersey and worked with Richie Zambora and Jon Bon Jovi for three days," explains Loverboy guitarist and songwriter Paul Dean. "We wrote four songs and of that I kept the 'Na-na-na-na . . .' part of 'Notorious,' and then re-wrote the song around that chorus with Mike Reno (Loverboy's Singer) and Dodd Cerney (songwriter) from Nashville."

This new approach, which might better be described as a return to their earlier sound, features songs that compliment Reno's vocal range; and that's exactly what the band wanted to do with this album.

"This time it was, 'What's the perfect key for you Mike?' and we would just focus on that." Dean says, "That was a subtle change – the real thing was the lyrics. I think I've gained a real good insight in to Mike over the past couple of years – what he really wants to do, what he really wants to talk about and sing about. I've been writing with a lot of outside writers, and we'd come up with the lines and I'd say, 'Nah, nah . . . ' or later I'd say, 'Yeah, yeah, that's it . . . that's Michael.' And that's the stuff we kept. I was like Michael's songwriter."

Loverboy's Wildside LP may be a holiday season winner, but as Mike Reno admits, the band is just happy to have put out a record that other people can easily market.

"I guess you could call it a big holiday album," Reno ventures, "I don't really follow why an album is put out at a particular time, like for the holiday season buying, but I am sure that this is a compilation of some of the best work I've done, and when a band feels like that internally, it's gotta show in sales. Some times we tend to let the music take over, but this time we tried to nail down lyrics and melodies."

TALENT ON STAGE

Starship

At the risk of sounding like something of a critic, I will herewith attempt to describe my personal reactions – emotional, radical, and whimsical though they may be, after watching Starship's recent concert at the Universal Amphitheater in Los Angeles.

In all honesty, Mickey Thomas showed bravery when he addressed the issue of "corporate rock" during this show. In doing so he gave to those who have become disillusioned with the Starship for one reason or another – usually because they identify this band with being at the leading edge of generic, sure-hit hipocrasy. However easy it is to grasp the ire touted by the critics of corporate rock, it's nice to know that Thomas is aware of the dilemma.

Although the show was world class, the only new action on this stage was a compelling bid by the band to have their loyal fans get up and really, we mean truly embrace the new single from the No Protection album, "Beat Patrol". Why this band, in their wisdom, didn't sit down over a couple of Jolt Colas and debate putting this into the set is beyond me.

"*Beat*Patrol?" Are they dreaming? How does one patrol a beat anyway? Or is this one of those clever social ironies, like in Bradbury's Fahrenheit 451, where the fireman stared fires. Are we to believe that Starship patrols our beat, making sure nobody interrupts our vital, essential rhythm? Did on one ever think to call this song, "Street Patrol," or " Sweet Control," or 'Treat My Soul?" I heard

NEW FACES TO WATCH

Robert Vaughn

By Rob Yardumian

LOS ANGELES - San Diego-based rocker Robert Vaughn is angry. Not bitter, not sullen - just angry. Angry at the world around him, angry at the politics and hype of the record business, angry at people who try to portray him as some kind of social martyr out to change the world with his music. Angry at, well, let him tell it: "There's a social responsibility of music. How dare a 45-year old man pollute the minds of the 12-, 13-, 14-year olds? That's disgusting. I know what kids are like that are flipped out on LSD that are 14 years old and locked up in an insane asylum. I seriously doubt any of these foolish bands will ever realize the damage they've done. People believe records - record companies don't want to believe that because if they did there would be a big guilt trip with it. I mean, I saw Kiss on MTV the other night. Forty-five year old men singing some jerk-off song to a bunch of twelve year olds. Absolute foolishness. I tell you what - put a bunch of those bands in the center, and I'll light the match. There are charlatans in rock just like in religion, and phony musicians just like phony politicians. You'd have to sell it to a 12-year old because anyone with half a brain would reject it. Musically it's horrific and the lyrical content is juvenile."

This diatribe against the Spandex-clad poseurs of the rock world is typical of the fiery Vaughn, a self-proclaimed "rebel with a cause" who has produced a debut album that echoes his own indignation at the problems he sees around him. Entitled Love And War (Island), the album is a bracing collection of anthemic, classically-enhanced rockers hopeful of AOR airplay.

Love And War is a thematic LP of hope and destiny, as Vaughn explains the variant ideas. "Social, romantic, political and religious themes. The four categories of life. They're all there. It's my world view - the only one I feel that I have any right to express."

ROBERT VAUGHN (R) AND THE SHADOWS

Although there is a grand, dramatic sweep to the music on the album, Vaughn is realistic about rock's power to change the world, stating "It's impossible. Realistically, I wish it would, but Love and War is an inward battle, basically. I'm not trying to be too deep or pretentious about it, because that kind of crap isn't going to go over in rock and roll anyway. I can't be the phony pop star for you. Just listen to the record - there's a lot of subjects being dealt with here."

Perhaps too much has been made of the political overtones of Vaughn's lyrical focus, and he eschews any alliance with either side's views. "I can't think for you," he insists. "The exploitation of the common man is wrong, politically and socially. People ask whether I'm left wing or right wing, well, that's absurd. Both wings are heretical in the end. Both of them lead to destruction if you follow through with them.

"You just have to find the balance within yourself and within what you consider to be normal reality. Once you quit living for rock and roll just for taking drugs and getting laid, you realize that music is a valuable tool that people can internalize."

this on the album and it baffled me; when I saw it performed live I started pinching myself and the people around me at the show. "Can you believe this is happening?" I asked, pinching them on the arm.

Don't get me wrong, it's "Beat Patrol" that bit the noodle here, not the Starship. I totally dig the Starship but I think they made a bad judgement call with regard to this patrolling the beat business. Watch someone say, "Lighten up bud, it's only a rock song about beats – quit trying to read something into it." Believe me, I am trying very hard not to read anything into it.

Otherwise, the Starship presented some of the neat songs from their last LP, like "Sara" and "We Built This City" plus the stand-a-long-with-Grace classic, "White Rabbit." They also did my personal fave, "Somebody To Love," which is such a good song that I think I will forgive the Starship for "Beat Patrol" just because they remembered to keep the former number in the set.

There were other highlights, including the solos by Craig Chaquico, all of which were well crafted, perfectly executed showcases from a reigning virtuoso. There was even a cool a capella bit between Thomas and drummer Donny Baldwin.

It was a fun show, but for a band that can get writers like Bernie Taupin involved with them, they shouldn't settle for anything but the best. I mean, would Bernie Taupin write a line like, "Just remember – we guard this city, the beat patrol – ohhhh!"

EAST COASTINGS

ANY OLD WAY YOU CHOOSE IT – "This book is entirely written, phrase by phrase, by yours truly, Chuck Berry."

So begins Chuck Berry: The Autobiography (Harmony Books), an extraordinary book about an extraordinary man.

"If you tried to give rock 'n' roll another name, you might call it Chuck Berry."

So says John Lennon, in a clip from an old Mike Douglas show, at the beginning of Chuck Berry: Hail! Hail! Rock 'n' Roll (Universal Pictures), Taylor Hackford's extraordinary film about the same extraordinary man.

The book and the movie are remarkably complementary: some of the questions raised by one get answered (to a certain extent) by the other. For example, we see Themetta Berry, Chuck's wife of 39 years, for a minute in the movie. She's on and then – poof! – she's gone. When the subject of his noted extramarital activities comes up in the movie, old Chuck mumbles something about "keeping the home fires burning" and moves on.

In the book, we get the extramarital activities in splendid detail (and in writing that is as blithe and original as Berry's songs).

In the movie, the subject of Chuck's run-ins with the law comes up, and Chuck snaps something about this not being the right place and the right time. The book doesn't blink on this – detailing, quite unemotionally, Chuck Berry's three prison terms: for armed robbery as a teenager, for violating the Mann Act at the height of his fame, for failing to pay some taxes in 1979. Berry portrays himself as something of a naif here – bungling himself into trouble without any real idea of what he's getting himself into.

Stuff like that. Keith Richards accuses Chuck, in the movie, of stealing everything he did, musically, from his original pianist, Johnnie Johnson. We feel sorry for Johnnie, who plays splendidly in the movie but who looks rather forlorn. In the book, Berry heaps praise on Johnson's considerable talents, but says he fired him (and decided to stop carrying his own back-up band) when Johnson turned out to be a drunk. Berry, it seems, does not abide liquor.

In fact, if there's anything that comes across in both book and film it's that Chuck Berry is an exceptionally level-headed man: he seems to know exactly what he's doing and exactly why he's doing it. And why he's usually doing everything is to satisfy his two overriding motivations: his pocketbook and his libido.

He's always been interested in making money, and he never really cared whether he headlined a show, "as long as I was satisfied with the fee." His goal was to have a million dollars in cash in the bank, something he appears to have achieved.

So when he's discussing his music, he acknowledges debts to Elmore James, Charlie Christian, T-Bone Walker, Muddy Waters and the like, but he is quite clear-eyed on what he was attempting to do. He was attempting to sell records; he was, from the git-go, attempting to cross over.

"Along about now [1956], I was beginning to hear feedback from the disc jockeys and newspapers quoting my age, which was thirty. The kids were beginning to approach me with the respectful gretting of 'Mr. Berry.' Such greetings came as a surprise to me since I had not thought about how it looked for an adult to be playing teenage music. Whatever would sell was what I thought I should concentrate on, so from 'Maybellene' on I mainly improvised my lyrics toward the young adult and even for the teeny boopers, as they called the tots then."

As for his libido, Chuck Berry always had one eye on the savings account and the other, well, not on the savings account. The Autobiography is fascinating.

Hail! Hail! Rock 'n' Roll is, in general, short on historical detail – it's not cluttered with old films of Berry and it doesn't really discuss the genesis of his music in particular or of rock 'n' roll in general. What it does have is some brilliant music-making, and comments (ranging from the hilarious to the incisive) from the likes of Bruce Springsteen, Roy Orbison, the Everly Brothers, Jerry Lee Lewis, Little Richard (in several scene-stealing cameos) and Bo Diddley.

The music (and the tension-filled rehearsals, with Keith Richards attempting to "produce" a Chuck Berry concert) is wonderful, especially when it concentrates on Berry, either performing at a St. Louis club or taking part in the star-studded 60th birthday concert – the film's centerpiece – at St. Louis's Fox Theatre. Things take a giant step down when Chuck relinquishes the mike to (or shares it with) Julian Lennon, Linda Rondstadt, Etta James, and Eric Clapton. Nobody, it is quite clear, sings Chuck Berry's classics like Chuck Berry.

While neither Chuck Berry: The Autobiography nor Chuck Berry: Hail! Hail! Rock 'n' Roll do their subject complete justice, together they present a fascinating portrait of an American original.

THE BEAT

MADISON AVENUE BATTLES-Black and/-or Urban Radio continues to battle the high powered advertising agencies of Madison Avenue. In a recent article, (front page dated September 23, 1987) The Wall Street Journal detailed some of the ongoing problems confronting Black or Urban Radio during a conversation with Mr. James Hutchinson, president and chief broadcast official of the Chicago based Inter Urban Group.

It's the same old song, that has been played for years. The Black or Urban station in any city, anywhere U.S.A. has the top listener percentage according to Arbitron or what ever rating service the Media buyers deem as "the one." The station representative finally gets an appointment to pitch his or her station for a particular buy. The media buyer tries in every way possible to discount the value of the numbers presentation taken from the rating book. Your station is clearly the market leader in the demographics the advertiser is seeking. You may out distance your CHR competitor by a large margin. I will cite an example of a black/urban station in a major market who was number 2 and their closest music (CHR) competitor was number 11. Both stations were given a portion of the buy, however the CHR station received over $500.00 per sixty second announcement, whereby the Black station received just over $200.00 per spot.

Trips and/or phone calls to the Madison Avenue Powers can add up quickly, thus if your station does get a buy, you wind up asking was the net profit from the buy worth it? Sure it is very impressive to have the big national accounts on your station but?? Is there an answer to the current economic plight facing black/urban radio? There certainly is! We will be discussing some of these answers in the future in this column. However the real solution lies in retaining the counsel of a broadcast economic development consultant. These professionals are broad based in their business endeavors, lurk behind the scenes and avoid publicity. If you are interested in seeking information regarding these professionals contact this writer.

THE PREACHER-With a career spanning over 30 years of extraordinary accomplishments, Bobby Womack continues to certify his musical brilliance with his latest album on MCA Records entitled The Last Soul Man. Womack's voice is an American original, raw, impassioned, and romantic, and when he wraps it around a song, no one delivers the package with more urgency and impact.

Born in Cleveland , Ohio as one of five sons of a steel worker, Bobby had joined his brothers in a gospel singing group before he had reached his teens. The Womack Brothers performed regularly in the churches and auditoriums of the gospel circuit. Here he met Sam Cooke, who was a member of another gospel group, The Soul Stirrers. It was Sam Cooke, who changed the name of the Womack Brothers to The Valentinos for their pop music debut, a smash Bobby wrote called Lookin For A Love.

After his decision to go solo in 1964, Womack settled in the highly charged musical atmosphere of Memphis, where he worked with, (in addition to the aforementioned) Joe Tex, King Curtis and Dusty Springfield. His reputation grew through the late 60's and early 70's as he scored with a string of hits Fly Me To The Moon, (my first DJ pick to click in radio) Woman's Gotta Have It, Daylight, You're Welcome, To Stop On By, Check It Out, That's The Way I Feel About Cha, Across 110th Street from the movie soundtrack he composed and produced and the list goes on and on.

Bobby's new album The Last Soul Singer, on which he wrote the majority of the songs but not his single Living In A Box. (a smash) Says Womack, "Living In A Box" has a curious history. I first heard it in England sung by the group Living In A Box. They presented it as a kind of psychological song, being boxed in your mind. But when I heard it, I was struck by just how applicable the lyrics was for the homeless. I dedicate it to all the homeless people on the album." Also on the album is Gina, a song Womack wrote as a tribute to his wife. He is also writing his autobiography, with the assistance of Grace Robbins, wife of novelist Harold Robbins.

Bobby just returned from an extensive tour of the Orient where he and his 12 piece soul band played before (SRO) standing room only audiences. With the release of his latest single and album on MCA look for more of the same from The Preacher.

QUESTION-WHAT DOES STEVIE WONDER AND THE MIAMI SOUND MACHINE HAVE TO DO WITH THE NEXT RELEASE ON EDGE RECORDS??

ON JAZZ

RAG TRADE – Dig this: In 1916, Scott Joplin sat down at a piano and played "Maple Leaf Rag," "Weeping Willow Rag," and a few other originals. And now these performances are available on compact disc and – here's the thing – they have been digitally recorded. What? Digitally recorded performances from 1916?

Well, of course, Joplin didn't make a recording, he made a piano roll. And Canaan, New York's Biograph Records, the historical label that knows a thing or two about piano rolls, has just issued three CDs worth of the things: a pair of Joplin discs ("The Entertainer" and "Elite Syncopations") and a compilation ("The Greatest Ragtime of the Century").

It's fascinating – indeed, it's downright scary – to hear these songs more or less as performed by Scott Joplin. The lion's share of the performances on the Joplin discs are from piano rolls made long after Joplin's demise, but this is ragtime as it was meant to be played – stately and quite beautiful. The compilation disc is, in many ways, the most interesting, because it features 16 original piano rolls: three of the Joplins and others by Fats Waller, Jelly Roll Morton, James P. Johnson, Eubie Blake, Jimmy Blythe and Charles Clark.

Biograph's president, Arnold S. Caplin, produced these things, with a little help from his friends, including MIT professor Charles Weiner, who says, "It is really striking to remember that the word 'digital' originally referred to the fingers or digits, upon which our counting systems were based, and that the early digital computers were controlled by perforated or punched papers tapes and cards."

There you are: what goes around comes around. Scott Joplin – digitally recorded then, digitally recorded now.

SAN FRANCISCO – With the baseball play-offs headed for Candlestick Park, you'd think San Francisco would be happy enough as it is. But, no, they feel they have to go out and have a jazz festival. The fifth annual Jazz in the City extravaganza gets under way October 9th at Bimbo's (you know, Jessica Hahn's joint) with "A Tribute to Latin Jazz Masters," featuring Francisco Aguabella, Pete Escovedo and others, and ends on October 17th at the same place with Maria Muldaur, Mary Stallings and many others singing "The Songs of Harold Arlen." In between, there will be performances by, to name a few, Tony Williams, David Grisman, Bobby Hutcherson, Joe Henderson and the Kronos Quartet. Call (415) 864-5449 for futher details.

CDs, CDs, CDs – A couple of items of considerable note have slid into the CD sections of record stores recently. One is Mobile Fidelity Sound Lab's "The Complete Sarah Vaughan Live in Japan," perhaps the best album La Sarah has ever made. Recorded in 1973 for Mainstream Records (and out-of-print for a number of years), this album is a stunner – the gorgeous voice at its most breathtaking. Capturing just about two full sets, this original came out as two albums: the double-LP "Live in Japan" and the single "More Live in Japan." Now it's all on two CDs – one of the centuries great voices at its most divine.

And Atlantic, continuing its CD reissue program apace, has just put out Ornette Coleman's galvanizing "Free Jazz," complete with the 17-minute "First Take" (previously available only on an album of previously-unissued Ornette bits and pieces). "Free Jazz" was Ornette's experiment with a double quartet and it is still, some 25 years later, a stunning experiment in free improvisation.

BUTLER DID IT – Henry Butler (l) takes time out from his recent Sweet Basil engagement for an interview with Billy Taylor, to be aired on CBS's Sunday Morning Oct. 18.

BOPPING AROUND – Caroline W. Leslie, who owned and operated Spinnster Records out of her home in Florida, died August 23 of cancer at the age of 51. She was a genuine presence on the South Florida jazz scene...Bainbridge Records has just issued Ron Eschete's "Christmas Impressions" on CD, just in time for the holidays (the holidays?)...Kwame Shaw's JazzTrack series, which fills Greenwich Village's Greenwich House with the good sounds, has two interesting collaborations up its sleeve: a meeting of Pe De Boi, the samba band, and Olu Dara (Oct. 24), and a band made up of Andrew Cyrille, Julius Hemphill, Fred Hopkins, Henry Theadgill and Bob Stewart (Dec. 5)...Peter Erskine's "Transition" album, released on CD earlier this year by Denon, has now come out (slightly abridged) on LP, licensed by Passport Jazz...New from Oxford University Press: Duke Ellington by James Lincoln Collier ($19.95) and All In Good Time by Marian McPartland ($14.95).

JAZZ FEATURE PICKS

CRYSTAL STAIR – Donald Harrison/Terence Blanchard – Columbia FC 40830 – Producer: Delfeayo Marsalis

A stilleto-sharp contemporary hard bop album from a pair of musicians who continue to grow and whose band really sounds like a band.

DAYS AWEIGH – Cassandra Wilson – JMT 870012 (dist: PSI) – Producer: Stefan F. Winter

A dynamic, full-bodied album from a young singer with chops, taste and range. Everything here has a heady and original fizz. A good one!

HOMAGE TO JOHN COLTRANE – Dave Liebman – Owl 046 (dist: PSI) – Producers: Jean-Jacques Pussiau, Francois Lemaire

Sopranoist Liebman, one of 'Trane's most steadfast disciples, in a passionate album of Coltrane originals, nicely arranged for two different bands.

MUSIC FOR STRING QUARTET, JAZZ TRIO, VIOLIN, AND LEE KONITZ – Pierre Blanchard – Sunnyside SSC 1023 – Producers: Pierre Blanchard, Francois Zalacain

An interesting album that introduces a talented young french violinist who straddles the line between Third Stream and hot jazz, often at once.

SARABANDE – Fred Hersch – Sunnyside SSC 1024 – Producer: Fred Hersch

Pianist Hersch in a crystalline, lyrical album of standards and originals that drips with beauty. Fine work, too, from Charlie Haden and Joey Baron.

SWEET REMEMBRANCE – Tony Dagradi – Gramvision 18-8707 – Producer: Jonathan F.P. Rose

The shadow of John Coltrane hangs heavily over this spiritual album by a strong, New Orleans saxophonist.

THE BEST THING FOR YOU – John Bunch – Concord Jazz CJ-328 – Producer: Carl E. Jefferson

Lilting, swinging standards from the delightful piano veteran.

CD SPOTLIGHT

SPLIT ENZ
History Never Repeats (The Best Of Split Enz) – A&M (CD 3289) – Producers: Various

A&M has finally issued a U.S. compilation of Split Enz's best tracks. The disc is timely released on the heels of (Split Enz vocalist) Neil Finn's recent success with Crowded House. The compact disc contains eleven tracks, all of which should have been huge American hits - although because of the Enz's advanced musical styles, the songs went virtually unrecognized by American radio. Exceptionally high-grade quality sound surrounds this disc, all analog recordings mixed to top quality digital sound. Best selections include: "I See Red" off the album Frenzy; "I Got You" from the True Colours LP; Off the Time And Tide LP there is "Six Months In A Leaky Boat"; "One Step Ahead" from the Waiata LP; and "Message To My Girl" from Conflicting Emotions. Hopefully, this collection will encourage listeners to delve into the record bins, searching for Split Enz's early works. Time will tell...

THE BEATLES –
Magical Mystery Tour – Parlophone/Capitol (CDP 7 48062-2) – Producers: George Martin

Capitol has just released the latest in the line of Beatles' compact discs, 1967's classic "Magical Mystery Tour." "Magical Mystery Tour" has the distinction of being the first of the Beatles' compact discs to be released in its American version (all others have been pressed according to their U.K. configurations). Only six of the disc's cuts were featured in the "Magical Mystery Tour" film; "The Fool On The Hill," "Flying," "Blue Jay Way," "Your Mother Should Know," "I Am The Walrus" and the title cut. The other tracks contained were culled from two British E.P.'s, they are "Hello Goodbye," "Strawberry Fields Forever," "Penny Lane," "Baby You're A Rich Man" and "All You Need Is Love." The sound quality of "Magical Mystery Tour" is superb, continuing in the excellent precedent set by all the Beatles' discs released thus far. An obvious must for any fan.

ALBUM ALLEY

Together Again–Temptations–Motown The title is certainly appropriate since this album features the return of the very distinctive vocals of Dennis Edwards to the Temptations and Motown. This legendary group consists of original members Melvin "Big Voice" Franklin and Otis Williams, along with Richard Street and Ron Tyson. Being a (20 years plus) major fan of this indescribably brilliant group, it is really great to hear the Tempting Temptations sounding like the Tempts of old. Gentlemen, you have re-captured the sound that was synonymous with your great hits of the past.

Highway 101...The Road To Success!

Pretty, petite, and personable. Those are all descriptive adjectives of Paulette Carlson, who is the lead vocalist and guitarist for the popular Warner Brothers recording group Highway 101. Paulette comes from among the 2,000 or so residents of Winsted, Minnesota. She relates that she worked with a dozen or more different bands in the North Dakota and Minnesota areas of the country, before her relocation to Nashville.

Once she arrived in Music City, she sang backup on recording sessions, wrote for the Oak Ridge Boys' music publishing firm as a writer, and entertained in several of the clubs and night spots around Nashville. In general, she struggled like so many others. Then, Paulette made her plans and took some steps which proved to be right for her in advancing her career as a serious artist.

"I hired a lawyer in L.A. to find a manager for me. One of the people she put me in touch with was Chuck Morris. He asked me if I would consider doing a 'band' situation. I loved the idea, so we started auditioning in Nashville and Colorado."

Vocalist and lead guitarist Jack Daniels was a name much in-demand by artists in country, rock and pop realms. His work with many famous musicians and bands have earned him a numerous amount of awards. Jack was quickly chosen as a member of the group.

Vocalist and drummer Scott "Cactus" Moser is a well-known name in music circles as well. Cactus has laid down solid beats for a wide range of artists. This powerhouse percussionist was also signed quickly as a member of Highway 101.

If the name Curtis Stone sounds familiar to country music fans, it's no surprise. He's the son of Cliffe Stone, legendary founder of the publishing giant Central Songs. An accomplished vocalist and bassist, Curtis cut his teeth as a country musician, vocalist and writer. With his contributions, Highway 101 became complete.

Paulette continued her conversation about the group.."The solid country sound is something that come about naturally. The first time we recorded in L.A., we cut a song called 'Some Find Love'. It didn't chart for us, and I asked the guys how we came up with such a country/pop sound. They all agreed that the song led us into the feel. We learned to be careful! When we got into our second recording session and cut 'The Bed You Made For Me', we knew immediately, that was the sound we were looking for."

Paulette Carlson, Jack Daniels, "Cactus" Moser and Curtis Stone deserve the success they are sharing. It couldn't happen to a better group of hard working people. And, when I say "it", I am referring to the acceptance they have achieved among their fans and peer, alike.

ALBUM REVIEW

JUICE NEWTON– Emotion– RCA 6371-1-R-A

Juice's latest single, "First Time Caller," is the first cut on this LP, and it sets the pace for those selections which follow. Tempos and emotions change frequently, hence, the album is properly titled. Juice delivers each cut with a fine vocal performance. However, we thought the title cut and "Old Bye And Bye" deserved special mention among a group of fine songs. This is an exceptional product for Juice and country fans.

ALBUM REVIEW

BELLAMY BROTHERS– Crazy From The Heart– MCA/Curb 42039

The vocal harmony of the Bellamy Brothers has a magic which keeps the listener wanting more. Well, here's your chance for a super selection of songs from two of country music's finest. No matter what the tempo or lyric content of the song, the Bellamys seem to master it with ease. "Santa Fe" is a standout song and performance, but every cut was at least three minutes of pleasure.

OUT OF THE BOX

EXILE (Epic, 34-07597) I Can't Get Close Enough (3:57) (Tree, Pacific Island, Careers-BMI) (S. Lemaire, J. P. Pennington) (Producer: E. Scheiner)

Exile is excellent on this product! The review competition was tough this week, but this brilliant performance of a super song swept the judges away. This is a "I'd do anything for your love" song theme, and it should have a wide appeal to the listeners. The lead vocal has a raspiness which makes this performance more outstanding, and the harmony is totally Exile at their best!

FEATURE PICKS

KENNY ROGERS (RCA, 5258-7-R-A) I Prefer The Moonlight (4:12) (Riverstone-ASCAP; Blackwood, Land of Music-BMI) (G. Chapman, M. Wright) (Producer: B. Bannister)

Ladies, especially, get ready! Kenny Rogers will be dominating the airwaves with this one. It's got a funky country feel, with a vocal only Rogers can do, and some fine acoustic pickin' in the arrangement. Perfect background vocals for highlights. The production is superb..complete, but not overworked.

DAN SEALS (Capitol, B-44077) One Friend (3:07) (Pink Pig-BMI) (D. Seals) (Producer: K. Lehning)

This is the song everyone wishes he/she could write for that special person! This could be Dan's best performance yet, and that says a lot. The beautiful sentiment in the song content and melody calls for a complete production with a sound of simplicity... it's a total success!

BILLY JOE ROYAL (Atlantic America, 7-99404) I'll Pin A Note On Your Pillow (4:10) (White Wings, Ensign-BMI; Famous, Blue Moon-ASCAP) (C. Berzas, D. Goodman, N. Larkin) (Producer: N. Larkin)

Billy Joe Royal has picked another fantastic "feel" song. He sounds so comfortable with this arrangement. We love the 50's performance of the background vocals (complete with some "shoo-be-doos"). Be prepared for a strong come back on the ending. Tall enough to climb the charts by itself.

THE SOUTH'S GONNA DO IT AGAIN! *Charlie Daniels' Volunteer Jam XIII thundered into Nashville's Starwood Amphitheatre September 6 and became the venue's first sell-out. The annual concert grossed more than $250,000 and featured the first performance of the reunited Lynryd Skynyrd Band. Portions of the Jam were aired on the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon. Pictured are: Daniels and Gary Rossington of Lynyrd Skynyrd. A variety of other fine acts were also featured on what has become one of Nashville's finest entertainment offerings. NASHVILLE NOTE-ABLES

A Final Letter To O. B. McClinton:

Dear O. B., I'm sorry you didn't get to spend more time with us. We all enjoyed your stay with us. We laughed together, sang together, and learned from one another. It was a wonderful time, and I shall never forget it.

I suppose I'm being selfish, though. I know you are glad to be home! It's always nice to visit with friends and loved ones, but there's no place like home, right?

Someday, soon, I'm going to get away from here. I hope to be able to come and spend a great deal of time with you. However, I want you to know that, presently, I am having some trouble following those instructions you gave us just before you left. Remember? You said not to be sad about parting. Then, you asked that we simply "listen to the music" and enjoy it. Well, I have done that, O. B., but all the music still reminds me of you. The happy songs bring memories of your broad smile and jovial personality. The sad songs mirror the fact that you have returned home after far too short a visit... and I miss you. I'm sorry. I'm being selfish, again.

When I come to your place, I want you to show me all those wonderful things you told me about. I certainly want to meet all those great, old friends you mentioned. You know, the ones who are your neighbors and old acquaintances. I'm still trying to understand why you said they were smart enough not to know black from white. If that means they don't care, what a wonderful neighborhood you must live in!

I am looking forward to seeing those silver-lined clouds you described, the ones appearing every morning, and the equally beautiful sunsets... Then, too, I am anxious to see that collections of instruments you told me about; the guitars fashioned from gold, the fiddles of finest wood, and the solid silver steel guitars that make music of the purest sound. You must have quite a collection, O. B.!

Yes, I have been selfish in wishing that you were still here, when you have such a beautiful place of your own. The words you use to describe your home, and your surroundings, make it sound as if you have a mansion in Heaven. I can hardly wait to see it!

I remain your friend, always.

INDIE SPOTLIGHT

A. J. MASTERS (Bermuda Dunes, C 117 BJD) Our Love Is Like The South (3:01) (Ensign, Tuggy-BMI) (B. Borchers, D. Goodman, A. Masters) (Producer: H. Saroyan)

Gather 'round and listen to A. J.'s best yet! No true country fan could walk away while he is singing this song. Clever lyrics to a happy song in up-tempo gear. There's some fine pickin' here, but Master's vocal is impressive and dominating. It's a clap-your-hands country song which should light up the request lines at the country radio stations.

INDIE FEATURE PICKS

RAZZY BAILEY (SOA, 001) If Love Ever Made A Fool (3:59) (Mocassin Creek-BMI) (C. D. Boyd) (Producer: R. Bailey)

We have all felt this way, but Razzy certainly makes feelin' like a fool sound beautiful! What a fine controlled and mellow vocal presentation. The song is a smoothie, too..building and flowing in all the right places. It is a country ballad in the finest form.

JUDY BYRAM (F & L, FL 554 A) No More One More Time (3:13) (W. B., Cross Keys-ASCAP) (T. Seals, D. Kirby) (Producer: R. Baker)

Judy Byram is not a timid singer. She has a fine, strong country voice, which she promotes on this record. Judy sings with emotion and she isn't bashful about it. We loved her performance and Ray Baker's super country production. How about "one more time", please.

BOBBY McGEE (Roto Noto, RN 1034) I'm Not Your Plaything (3:06) (Silver Line-BMI) (D. Gibson) (Producer: unlisted)

Sounds like Bobby McGee has found his individual style. That's good, and this is a good sound. There's a touch of blues in this forceful ballad. Short and curt phrasing and, yet, the song flows well. Production is good, but McGee's vocal is the audio point, here.

DARK HORSE CONSENSUS

RAY PRICE– Just Enough Love– Step One, SOR 378

Ray Price "swings" into the Dark Horse Consensus, with ease, this week. Just as we predicted, this one is a hot record. No wonder, though. Ray's popularity and singing ability have increased every year. We wish Ray and Step One the best of luck with this one. Some stations voting for Ray were: WCVR, WXCE, KAYZ, WVAR, KFAY, WCCN and WSDQ.

NEW PLAYERS

It's A Great Year For "Boardo"!

If your daughter stands in front of the mirror and sings along with her favorite recording artists, don't get worried about her. That's the way Liz Boardo got her start. Today, Liz is a highly successful recording star on the Master Records label.

"I used to listen to Mom's and Dad's records, when I was a kid. I remember singing along with Patsy Cline and Tammy Wynette. And, I copied the way they sang. The first song I learned was 'Don't Touch Me'. I guess I was a typical little girl with show business ambitions.

I love country music because it's as honest as I am. I must feel what I'm singing. When I'm doing a show, I'm enough of an actress to change moods every three minutes. You have to be, if you're going to put feelings into every song."

Liz Boardo is a very intelligent young lady from Holliston, Massachusetts. Her success has, no doubt, attracted major label attention. Liz had some comments about her future plans. "I'm not going to jump at a major label contract simply because of the prestiege of being on a major label. Everyone wants that, naturally. However, I want guarantees that the label will give me the backing I need, and the people I need to work with. I'm looking for the opportunity to be released on a regular basis with some priorities included in the contract. My signing would have to be a carefully calculated business move. I can, and would, be happy on any label which gives me a sincere effort."

Her professional inspirations have come from Patsy Cline and Gary Morris. "I'm very emotional. I cry a lot. When I listened to Patsy Cline songs, she made me believe everything she sang! Gary's quality and clarity makes a believer of me, too. I do a lot of his songs in my shows. I think country music is well balanced now. We have up-tempo artists, and we have ballad artists. Some do both well. There is another inspiration I should mention..Reba McEntire. She has to be the most honest performer out there today."

Liz doesn't know where she fits into the country music picture right now. "When I sing, I sound the same as I sound when I talk. Stage and studio are two different things. On record, I have to please radio, myself, and the business interests. On stage, I have to please the audience and myself. I don't want one listening audience. I'm hoping all the fans will enjoy my product. I do what I am capable of doing, and I can only pray that everybody enjoys it."

Judging from her success, Liz Boardo must be heard by somebody up There who likes her, just as she is heard by her fans down here. I happen to be one of her fans. I found Liz Boardo to be sincere, talented, intelligent and a beautiful person. Oh, yes. It has been a good year for Boardo, and the product will get even better in the years to come.

N.C. Passes Flea Market Bill As RIAA Points Finger At 58 N.C. Retailers

NEW YORK – The North Carolina Assembly has enacted legislation called "An Act Regulating Peddlers, Itinerant Merchants, Flea Market Vendors and Flea Market Operators," in an attempt to regulate Flea Markets, which the RIAA calls "the largest source of illegal tapes in the U.S.," citing North Carolina as the second worst offender. Under the new law, itinerant merchants must obtain written permission from the property owner and must retain that document at all times.

In an unrelated item, the RIAA, on behalf of its member companies, forwarded 58 cease and desist letters to various individuals and locations involved in the sale of counterfeit and pirate recordings throughout North Carolina. If the cease and desist letters are not obeyed, the RIAA will consider legal action.

And 10 individuals were arrested on September 4 at a flea market in Kenton, Ohio for the sale of alleged countefeit cassettes. They were charged with violating the Ohio Criminal Simulation statute.

commenting "The Wave is the music of the future. Kansas City has a young, progressive audience which will be very receptive to The Wave."

Three more stations, all owned by Gannett Broadcasting, signed up last week. In San Diego, KSWV-FM (formerly KSDO-FM) president and general manager Chris Conway said "The Wave is the hottest format since rock and roll. The synergism will be perfect for us." Dallas' KOAI-FM (formerly KTKS-FM) and Seattle's KNUA-FM round out the first group of signings. Gannett president Jay Cook echoed the industry-wide enthusiasm, stating "We're just in the beginning of the evolution. The Wave will continue to evolve as one of the major radio formats on the dial today."

The Wave debuted with a splash in Los Angeles, bringing the station from 22nd to 7th in the 25-54 audience demographic in the first full Arbitron rating book after the format's introduction. The music mix is a blend of soft rock, light jazz, and New Age music.

Around The Route

By Camille Compasio

Next scheduled meeting of the Jukebox Promotion Committee will be held October 19. As reported in the Sept. 26 edition of Cash Box, one of the first major decisions reached by this newly formed Committee (of AMOA) was the establishment of National Jukebox Month, to begin in October of 1988 – the year the jukebox celebrates its 100th birthday!

Mark your calendars. Would like to alert California ops about two major events – the annual C.A. Robinson & Co. post-AMOA shows, which are scheduled for Wednesday, November 18 (in San Francisco) and Friday, Novemberr 20 (in Los Angeles). You can bet both functions will be jam packed with factory reps, op customers – and equipment – with Bettelman family members and staffers on hand to extend the hospitality of the house.

Felicitations! Belated birthday greetings to Gus Tartol of Singer One Stop For Ops, who celebrated his big day on September 19. Wife, Sharon, will be having a birthday on October 7; and son, Daniel, will be two years old on October 25!

A recordbreaker! AMOA officials report that early response to Expo '87 has been "excellent". The exhibit hall is 95% sold out and pre-registration figures are up more than 40 percent!

State association happenings. The South Carolina Coin Operators Assn. has scheduled its 1988 annual convention and trade show for February 12-14 at the Radisson Hotel in Columbia, SC. For info on exhibiting or attending contact Helen Sikes at (803) 254-4444.

This 'n that. The first off-track betting parlor, The Winner's Circle, recently opened in Peoria, IL with hundreds of residents on hand (along with local and state politicians), a band, a live racehorse in the parking lot and much fanfare. The Winner's Circle is located in Peoria's Landmark Recreation Center, which also houses a bowling alley, a video arcade and health club. According to an article in the Chicago Sun-Times, Rockford, Illinois could have an off-track betting parlor within a couple of months and, possibly, even Chicago by next year...Crain's Chicago Business tells of a licensing pact between Bally Mfg. Corp. and Ann Sather (Swedish restaurant & bake shops) to test the bakeries for possible nationwide expansion. Ann Sather's Swedish Bakeries will soon debut in such popular Chicago area shopping centers as Ford City, Golf Mill and Randhurst – and when test results come in, further decisions will be announced...Crain's also reports that executive salaries in Chicago are up 7 percent, reflecting the most significant gain in five years!

At the end of this week (10/8-10) Rowe distribs will be gathering at Marriott's Camelback Inn in Scotsdale, Arizona to attend the factory's annual distributor meeting – and view the new jukebox models.

Spoke with Loewen America pexy Rus Strahan, upon his return from factory headquarters in Germany. Had a million questions to ask him about the new c.d. juke and company palns for AMOA Expo '87 but he preferred to set them aside to preserve the element of surprise we're all accustomed to at this time of the year, choosing instead to focus on the "Galaxy 200" jukebox. Sales on this model have been fantastic, and far ahead of initial projections. Rus estimates that about 75-80 percent of production on the "Galaxy 200" is being utilized in the U.S. Market. It's a big selling piece out here!

AAMA Presses For Amusement Machine Sales Index

CHICAGO – At its recent meeting in Chicago the board of directors of the American Amusement Machine Association went on record once again as strongly in support of the Amusement Machine Sales Index – AAMA's ongoing statistical survey of seven major product categories within the industry.

According to AAMA president Frank Ballouz, "In a recent survey conducted by the National Association of Manufacturers (NAM) collecting industry statistics is still the most common of the traditional functions of trade associations. In that study NAM reported that 83.3 percent of responding manufacturing industries collect statistics. The board feels that AAMA can provide a valuable service to the industry by providing ongoing statistical data."

The board recognized that some firms within the industry have been reluctant to participate in the new survey out of concern for confidentiality or because thay have not yet been convinced of the value of the survey. In an effort to address these concerns the board has published "Eleven Questions and Answers About the Amusement Machine Sales Index." These questions are the ones most frequently asked of AAMA when firms are considering whether or not to participate.

For further information contact AAMA headquarters at 205 The Strand, Suite 3, Alexandria, Virginia 22314.

The AAMA board expressed its appreciation to the more than twenty-four firms which have already provided convidential data (and to those who have expressed a willingness to do so) to Arthur Andersen and Company, one of the world's largest and most prestigious accounting firms.

Atari's 'R.B.I. Baseball'

Atari Games Corporation announced the release of its latest video game "R.B.I. Baseball", a one and/or two player simultaneous baseball game for the Nintendo VS. System. This is the low cost, simple conversion that fits into all VS. System games including Uni System uprights, dual-monitor uprights, and dual monitor sitdowns. As stated by Atari Games' product manager Jerry Momoda, "R.B.I. fills a void in the marketplace with a game ideal for both street and arcade locations."

The theme, of course, is baseball and the new model offers the popular add-a-coin feature. At the onset, players select from one of ten "Dream Teams", each with a roster of baseball

Valley Launches Electronic Darts Tourney

CHICAGO – A three-level tournament schedule, developed and sponsored by The Valley Company for electronic darts players, will kick-off this fall. In announcing the tournament, Alan Schafer, Valley vice president-marketing said, "Electronic darts is on the move and Valley is committed to keep it moving! Our heavy involvement in the Valley National 8-Ball Association has proven that organized play is essential in the advancement and improvement of coin game enjoyment" he added. "It is our goal to provide darts games players with the best possible organization and tournament play, as we have with pool."

The first level of play will be in three categories – men's singles, women's singles and mixed doubles – to determine local qualifiers for the North American team. Local winners in these three groups become eligible to compete in the North American Championships, which will be held at the Hacienda Resort Hotel in Las Vegas, Nevada on Saturday, March 5, 1988. The winning team, consisting of the men's champion, the women's champion and the mixed doubles champions, will be awarded the Valley Cup, plus an expense-paid trip to Japan in the fall of 1988 where they will represent North America in competition and exhibitions against leading Japanese electronic darts teams.

Finally, this North American team will compete in the Valley Electronic Darts World Championships against teams representing Europe, Asia and other continents.

Each participant in the local qualifiers will receive a specially designed beer mug as a memento. There is a one-time entry fee of $15.00 which will be paid back in the form of travel vouchers issued to winners of local qualifying matches who compete in the North American Championships in Las Vegas.

Players may enter competiion solely through local operators who, at a nominal charge, are supplied with complete tournament kits containing announcement posters, schedules, tournament flow charts, rules, registration forms, and all of the other essentials. All local competition must be held on operator-owned electronic dart machines. The competition in Las Vegas will be held on valley "Royal Dartes" machines with the international-sized target and the double bull's-eye.

"Valley is an active supporter of the condept of friendly competition – for pleasure and for prizes," Schafer emphasized. "That's why we are backing the AMOA National Darts Association in every way possible, including financially. And we back the coin operator just as strongly, too, because we believe that healthy operators mean a healthy industry," he continued. "And there's no better way to do this than through strong league and tournament play. Now, this three-level tournament with its interantional flavor menas world-wide competition in electronic darts has arrived, and we anticiapte its every success," he concluded.

The Dollars And $ense Of Business Promotions – Part VII

By Roger Sharpe

This series has attempted to focus on a number of activities that can be implemented immediately; at an economical cost that shouldn't make any undertaking prohibitive. All it takes is some initiative, imagination and the desire to be more successful than you already are.

In terms of video games, we have highlighted some options available for the creation of many different types of tournaments – some based on theme games (sports), others where time limitations might be the boundary given the nature of the machines (such as an Arkanoid) and variations in between. But there's much more that can be accomplished to increase earnings across the board on almost any video games that you have in operation.

Tournaments, unto themselves, are excellent promotional vehicles, but they tend to be a "one-shot" event with a limited time frame, drawing on a specific audience of players who feel that they have "a chance" to win. This isn't to minimize the impact that tournaments can have on a business which has been doing little, or nothing, to attract traffic and increase consumer awareness, as well as all the other benefits which have been covered in past installments of this series.

However, to think that tournaments, on their own, are enough is something that needs to be addressed and put into perspective. Ideally, any tournament activity on any group of machines, is just one component part of total marketing/promotional scheme that is being done over time and on a regular basis. And the perfect complement within this promotional mix is to consider the creation of video game leagues (since we're only focusing on video games this time around). Obviously, some games, on the surface – for a variety of reasons – lend themselves more so to the incorporation of some type of league structure. But really any machine can be made to 'conform' to necessary guidelines based on time or the type of play action.

The creation of leagues tend to add continuity to your business. It allows you to isolate different groups of players for specific times of competition on a daily, or weekly basis, and for a duration of time that might last for weeks or months. And the amount of guaranteed income derived from such an activity is known ahead of time because you know what you'll be charging and how many players will be involved.

The structure for video game league competition is relatively simple and straightforward if you can use the bowling league scenario as a beginning model on which to base rules and operating procedures. You can pick almost any machine, or group of machines, to do a test program. This is highly recommended – to start cautiously and slowly so that you don't become over-extended and you still have the opportunity to make adjustments and refinements as you go along. Once you've gained some experience in the running of leagues, you can then branch out and attempt more on a concurrent basis.

Ideally, you want to get a sign-up sheet going within the game room, eliciting players to compete in a trial league program. The parameters will be that every league night, or day, players will face off for a three game series (similar to bowling) and that standings will be based on wins/losses as well as points scored. So even if you have an Atari APB league and a Black Tiger league, or competition based around Rastan Saga, Boot Camp, Gondomania...it doesn't matter. The rules are still going to be the same, with a pre-determined number of players.

And you have an additional option to incorporate if your players are willing to do it. Instead of having just one video game being played for the league competition, why not mix and match equipment so that you can utilize most of the pieces on your floor. One week it might be a space shoot 'em up, another week it's a racing game and so on. The formula for wins and losses still applies and it forces your players to prctice on everyting–which they are not going to mind doing given the ultimate reward at the end of the league – the acknowledgement of being the best video game player at the XYZ family game room.

Once again, as we have stressed during this series, you have the flexibility to design any activity that will work for your business and your clientele. But a video game league is something that is worth the effort to see if there is any interest in it by your players. And the recommendation here is that you try for at least eight to ten individuals who you can depend upon showing up and following through during the length of the program. And be prepared to reward them with trophies, jackets, t-shirts, whatever, as a show of appreciation and a reinforcement of their participation. Because once you have launched a first program, the ones that follow are that much easier.

Another option for this first time video game league is to go after those two-player machines, such as Double Dragon and others and have teams be made up of players competing as a team against other teams. In this case you would probably want to have at least six to ten teams, once again playing a three game series on one machine or a group of games that allow for two-player tandem play.

In the running of any league competition a great source of structuring can be found by using what bowling has done over the years. The three game series with wins and losses or even a point system. The latter is intriguing because there are a number of options open to you for establishing team/indidvidual standings. You can base each win on two points and a total series (winning at least two games) for an extra point. There is even a system which has been created that can provide all the methodology necessary and this has been highlighted in previous Cash Box issues that have featured Steven Epstein of the Broadway Arcade and the system he uses for his pinball leagues. (Steve can be contacted for more information at 212-247-3725 or I can be reached for more input at 203-271-0047).

All in all, the concept of video game leagues might appear to be farfetched on the surface, but here is a credible rationale underlying the entire idea as a profitable, low-risk, low priced way to gain some added revenues and create some excitement among your players above and beyond the standard mix of old and new machines that you have on location. And that, after all, is the reason to do any type of promotion – increase business, appeal to more players, and attempt to organize an activity that can be the basis upon which to gain fixed amounts of earnings over a specific period of time.

More of these ideas will be forthcoming in the next installments of this Cash Box series on how to make dollars and sense of business promotions.

greats. Players use standard VS. System controls, a joystick and two buttons to hit, pitch, run, steal, control fielders, substitute batters and pitchers, and virtually every other action performed in real baseball. It's a terrific action/strategy game where players have to put baseball savvy and knowledge on the line.

Skill characteristics and statistics are based on actual player performance. Each player has different hitting power, running speed and pitcher styles as well as stamina and ball control. Therefore, knowing the strengths and weaknesses of teams and players is crucial. At the conclusion of a game, the winner is amusingly announced in bold print on front of the daily sports page. The add-a-coin feature comes in handy for those extra inning games.

NAMA Announces Contest Winners

CHICAGO – Six first and second place winners were selected in the 1987 NAMA Newsletter and Sales Brochure Contest, along with twelve Honorable Mentions. Contest winners will be honored at this year's NAMA convention in Philadelphia and the winning entries will be on display in the exhibit hall.

Air Capital Vending, Inc. of Wichita, KS was awarded first place in the Newsletter Division, with second place going to Jomar Sales & Vending Company of Peabody, MA. First place for sales brochures (companies under $20 million in sales) was earned by Bell Food Services of Glastonbury, CT and second place went to Modern Vening, Inc. of Indianapolis.

In the $20 million-plus sales category, the judges declared a tie for first place between All Seasons Services, Inc. of North Quincy, MA and Weisman Enterprises, Inc. of Minneapolis.

"The quality of sales and marketing tools used by our industry has improved considerably since our first contest seven years ago," stated Walter Reed, NAMA's director of public relations. "We hope that others will be stimulated in their own efforts when they see the winning displays at the Philadelphia show."

The 1987 NAMA national convention will take place during the period of October 29-November 1 at the Philadelphia Convention Center.
